Introducing Auntie's Treats

Ah, the sweet smell of success...and two young women are hoping they've got the recipe to achieve that goal with – what else? Sweet smells.

Last June, sisters-in-law Jeny Apt and Megan Brosseau started their homestead bakery, "Auntie's Treats," in Pittsfield after getting their feet wet with a baking stint while living in Nashua. Jeny and her brother spent some time in Barnstead when they were younger, and after a few moves from apartments to houses to apartments, they and their spouses decided to head back to the area.

"I wanted the community feel, which we didn't have in Nashua," said Jeny, speaking from her efficient kitchen-turned-bakery, "where we can be a part of the community. Megan and I want to take this baking we love to do, and spread it around."

The duo started with cakes and cupcakes, then added cookies. And now with the holidays nearing, they're planning on diving into the candy aisle. One recipe is made with mashed potatoes which do the "binding." Combined with confectioner's sugar, the ingredients are then rolled out, topped with either hot fudge sauce or peanut butter, and re-rolled back into a log and sliced. The consistency is that of fudge – soft and sweet.

The girls are able to bake in their home as a homestead operation, following the guidelines set by the DHHS, until they reach $20,000 in annual gross sales. And they have to stick to non-potentially hazardous food. For example, Jeny explained, they cannot work with pumpkin as it's not acidic enough to be considered safe, even when baked.

They advertise through social media, using their Facebook business page, "Auntie's Treats," on Facebook Marketplace, and of course, word of mouth. "Megan is extremely talented, especially with her custom cakes. She's definitely the creative one, where I stick more to the numbers and the business part," said Jeny. And what's trending in cakes? Naked cakes where much of the frosting is "scraped" off, leaving a more rustic look and reduced sweetness.

A self-taught decorator, Megan adorns her cake creations with fresh flowers, molded flowers made of fondant, royal-iced sugar cookies, ganache, cherries dipped in edible gold leaf, and other delectables. For a Harry Potter themed birthday party she made witches' hats from Oreo cookies and mini cones dipped in chocolate.

At the upcoming Parks and Recreation's Harvest Fest on October 23, they'll be setting up a cupcake decorating table for the kids to decorate their own cupcakes, and they'll also be attending the Trunk or Treat event at the MSA Globe parking lot, sporting a Cookie Monster theme.

Inspiration for the bakery came from both of their aunts, and from being aunties themselves. "It makes both of us feel really good when people are eating our food," said Jeny. "I've always loved to cook and bake, and Megan is extremely artistic and lets that come out through her baking. This is our way to make sure that people we love are cared for with food!"

Since moving to town just a few months ago, business is already picking up. Long-term goal? A storefront. Until then check them out on Facebook. You won't be disappointed.

Selectboard Review: October 12, 2021

After well over a year in Federal Court, United States District Judge Joseph Laplante handed down his Order in the $10,000,000 lawsuit Joseph McCoy v. Town of Pittsfield. Town officials have remained silent on the case, letting the facts speak for themselves as the process played out. Judgement was rendered in favor of the Town of Pittsfield and the case ordered Closed on Oct. 6. Judge Laplante wrote a clear, thorough, factual summary, and most importantly the true timeline of events, which the Town has posted on its website www.PittsfieldNH.gov. We strongly encourage anyone with an interest in this case to read the Order in its entirety. You owe it to yourself, and those who listen to you, to have all the facts.

The lease option for a solar farm on Town property off Dowboro Rd. has expired without action by New England Solar Garden. We closed the option and will consider better proposals.

Police Sergeant Nance left his full-time position but will remain as a part-time patrolman. Nance is a valuable asset to the department and we're glad to have him at least part-time.

We received an offer from a young couple in town who are multimedia artists focused on large scale paintings to install a mural on the side of an unspecified building in town. I don't believe the town has ever entertained such an offer in the past, but the idea is intriguing. We asked for more information and specifics, and obviously a lot of consideration would have to go into the idea.

General housekeeping items finished this rather long meeting. Carl Anderson

Cook's Corner

Cheeseburger & Tater Tot Casserole

My inspiration for this dish was a fully-loaded cheeseburger. It features all the familiar flavors, including the fries, in a fun, deconstructed format. Enlist the kiddos to help mash the Tater Tots into the pie plate. Nice sides for this would be cole slaw, and heat up a can of baked beans. You can easily double this by doubling the ingredients, but the cooking temperature and time scales remain the same. This is perfect for a busy Friday night meal. You can use the remaining half bag of Tater Tots for breakfast burritos, a base for nachos, or as a topping for chili. Ring the dinner bell and enjoy!

- ½ of a 32-oz pkg of frozen tater tots, thawed
- 1 small onion, diced
- 3 pickle spears, chopped (optional)
- 1 Tbsp vegetable oil
- 1 to 2 lbs ground beef, preferably 90% lean
- 1 cup finely shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 plum tomato, diced
- ½ romaine lettuce heart, cut into thin strips
- 3 Tbsp ketchup
- 2 Tbsp yellow mustard

Heat oven to 425. Firmly press the tater tots into a 9-inch pie plate, along the bottom and up the sides, to form a base. Bake for 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, finely chop the onion and the pickle (if using).

In a large skillet, heat the oil on medium-high then add the onion. Cook for 3 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the ground beef and season with salt and pepper. Cook for about 4 to 5 minutes, until the beef is cooked through. Remove from heat and drain the mixture in a colander if you didn't use 90% lean beef.

Transfer the beef mixture to the pie plate, spreading the meat over the cooked tater tots, in an even layer. Sprinkle the pickles on top here, if you're using them. Top the entire pie plate with the cheddar cheese, and bake in the oven for 15 minutes, or until the cheese has melted.

Pull it out of the oven, top with shredded lettuce and chopped tomatoes, then drizzle the top with the ketchup and mustard. - MP Christakos

School Board Update

At the Pittsfield School Board's last meeting, Mr. Bryan Lane, Superintendent of Schools, told the board that he would be bringing forward, to our next meeting, his most recent findings about the tuition study. Since there have been requests from the community to know more about this process, we encourage people to attend the next meeting, Thursday, 10/21 at 5:30pm at PMHS, where Mr. Lane will share information about the costs associated with each school, as well as discuss the the possible challenges of tuitioning out the high school students, and specifically about busing costs. Molly Goggins, mollymoultonbrooks@gmail.com or 603 387-1396
